

QUIZ - 11

(1.) How many different types of selectors in CSS?

- Ans. 3
4
5
6

(2.) _____ selects the HTML element by name.

- Ans. Class selectors
element selectors
Universal Selectors
Group selectors

(3.) An id is not always unique within the page so it is chosen to select a single, unique element.

- Ans. True
False
Cannot say
Can be true & false

(4.) Id written with the ?

- .
$
@
#

(5.) The universal selector is used as a ?

- Ans. Wildcard Character
Page Character
Commas character
None of the above

(6.) A similar rule called the _____ is specified using the plus sign (+) and is used to select elements that would be siblings of each other.

- Ans. class selectors
adjacent-sibling selector
attribute selectors
None of the above

(7.) Which part of the box model clears an area around the content?

- Ans. Padding
Border
Margin
None of the above

(8.) Which of the following display property values is described by treating the element as inline?

- Ans. inline-block
list-item block inline